The GPC Polygon Clipper Library is entirely free for download and evaluation.

If, after your evaluation, you decide you want to use GPC for a particular application you're developing, what happens next depends on whether your application is non-commercial, or commercial.

Non-commercial use of GPC

GPC is available free-of-charge for non-commercial not-for-profit developers. Examples of non-commercial use include: hobbyist, and academic research.

Commercial use of GPC

If you wish to use GPC as part of a commercial for-profit project, you must purchase a GPC Commercial Use Licence from The University of Manchester. Please email us at the address below for full details of our flexible licensing scheme.

Not sure?

If you're unsure whether The University of Manchester would consider your application as commercial or not, please ask, and we'll do our best to clarify.

Please let me know if you have any queries.

With best wishes,
